Blues – William C. Handy who composed “Memphis Blues” (1912 – originally entitled “Mr. Crump” in 1909) is known as the “Father of the Blues,” although the Blues dates back to the 1890’s and earlier. It was developed after the Civil War and was influenced by field hollers and work songs. It is an expression of emotion and sadness. The Blues talks of basic human problems such as love, death and poverty.

Bond – Julian Bond is a Black Civil Rights Leader who helped create the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) in 1960. In 1965 he won a seat in the Georgia State Legislature but was not admitted due to his endorsement of a SNCC statement. The statement accused the United States of violating international law in Vietnam. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled the exclusion unconstitutional and he was sworn into office in January 1967.

Booker T. Washington – He organized a normal and industrial school, known as Tuskegee Institute, for African Americans in Tuskegee, Ala. It became one of the leading African-American educational institutions in America and it emphasized industrial training as a means to self-respect and economic independence for Black people.

Count Basie – William (Count) Basie was a Grammy Award winning jazz pianist, composer and bandleader in the era of the “big band.” A radio announcer dubbed him “Count” Basie to indicate his standing in the aristocracy of jazz with the likes of Duke Ellington.

Eubie Blake – He was a pianist and composer of ragtime music and show tunes. He met Noble Sissle (lyricist and vocalist) in 1915 and the two entertainers were among the first Black performers to appear onstage without minstrel makeup. They created one of the first musicals (“Shuffle Along” – 1921) that was written, produced, and directed by Blacks. It introduced three entertainers whose careers would be notable: Paul Robeson, Florence Mills, and Josephine Baker.

Gibson – Althea Gibson was the first African American to play in the U.S. championships at Forest Hills, NY (1950) and at Wimbledon, England (1951).

Harriet Tubman – She was one of the most successful Conductor’s of the Underground Railroad and is credited with leading more than 300 slaves to freedom.

Jackie Robinson – He was the first African American baseball player in the modern major leagues.

Jazz – An improvisational music form created by African Americans and developed from ragtime and blues.

Juneteenth – Juneteenth is the oldest known celebration to commemorate the end of slavery in the United States. On June 19, 1865 Major General Gordon Granger and the Union soldiers arrived in Galveston, Texas with the news that the Civil War had ended and that the Slaves were free. This was 2 1/2 years after President Lincoln’s Emancipation Proclamation, which went into effect January 1, 1863.

Marion Anderson – Considered by many the world’s greatest contralto. In 1939, Marion Anderson was not allowed to rent concert facilities in Washington D.C.’s Constitution Hall, which was owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution because of her race. First Lady, Eleanor Roosevelt, resigned from the DAR and arrangements were made for her to sing at the Lincoln Memorial on Easter Sunday with 75,000 in attendance. She was also the first African American singer to perform as a member of New York’s Metropolitan Opera in 1955.

Marshall – Thurgood Marshall presented over 30 civil rights cases before the Supreme Court and won 29 of them. His most important case was (Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka – 1954), which ended segregation in public schools. He later became the first African American Supreme Court Justice in American history.

Martin Luther King, Jr. – Civil Rights Leader and winner of the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1964. He was chosen the leader of the Montgomery Improvement Association, which started the Montgomery Bus Boycott. He advocated civil disobedience and non-violence resistance against unjust laws. He was assassinated on April 4, 1968.
